CODY OLSON EASTERN SD

WEEKLY NOTES

Guys are wrapping up planting, 90% done with corn and 80% on soybeans.

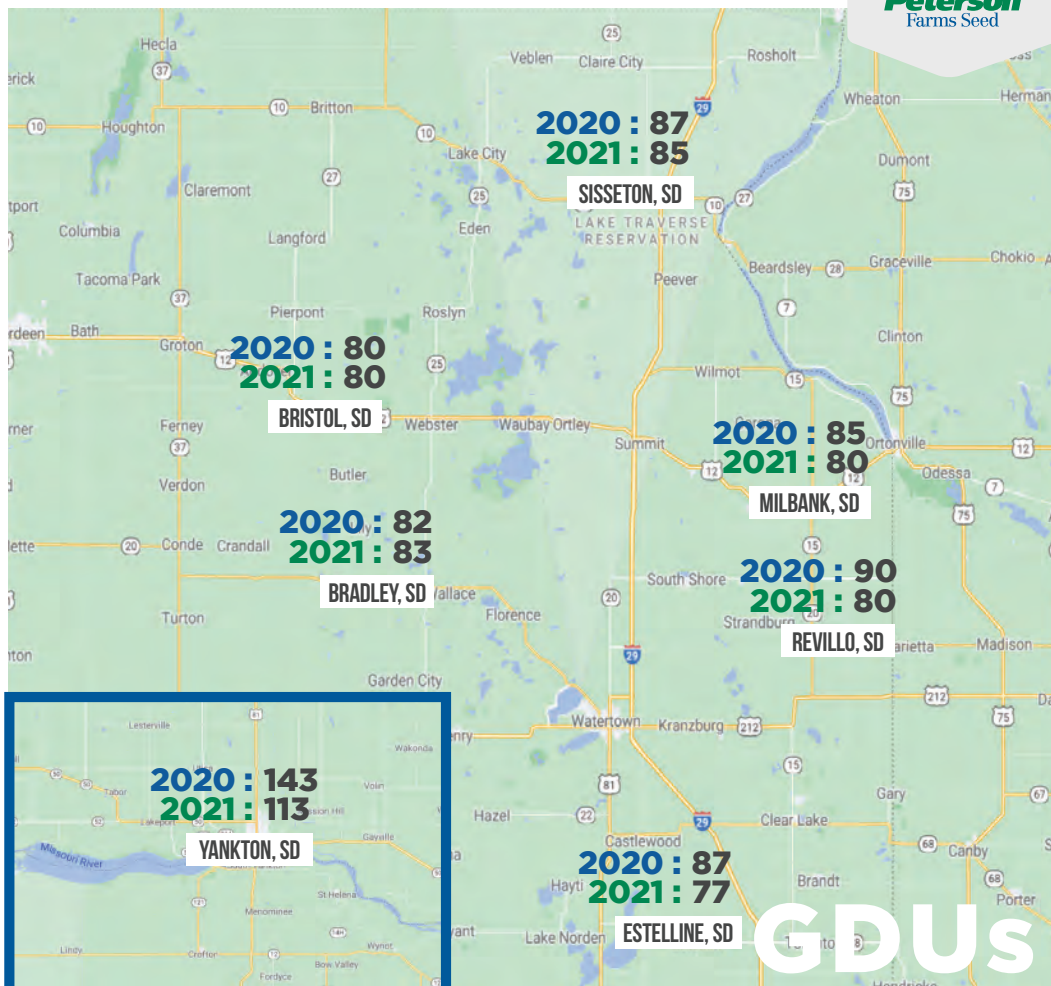

Spring wheat and alfalfa look great even though we are still dry. I hope we can pick up some rain this weekend.

WEEK OF MAY 11, 2021

CRAIG LAVOI SOUTHWEST MN

WEEKLY NOTES

Corn is 95% completed, and soybeans are 50-75% depending on geography. Soybeans should be largely finished by the weekend.

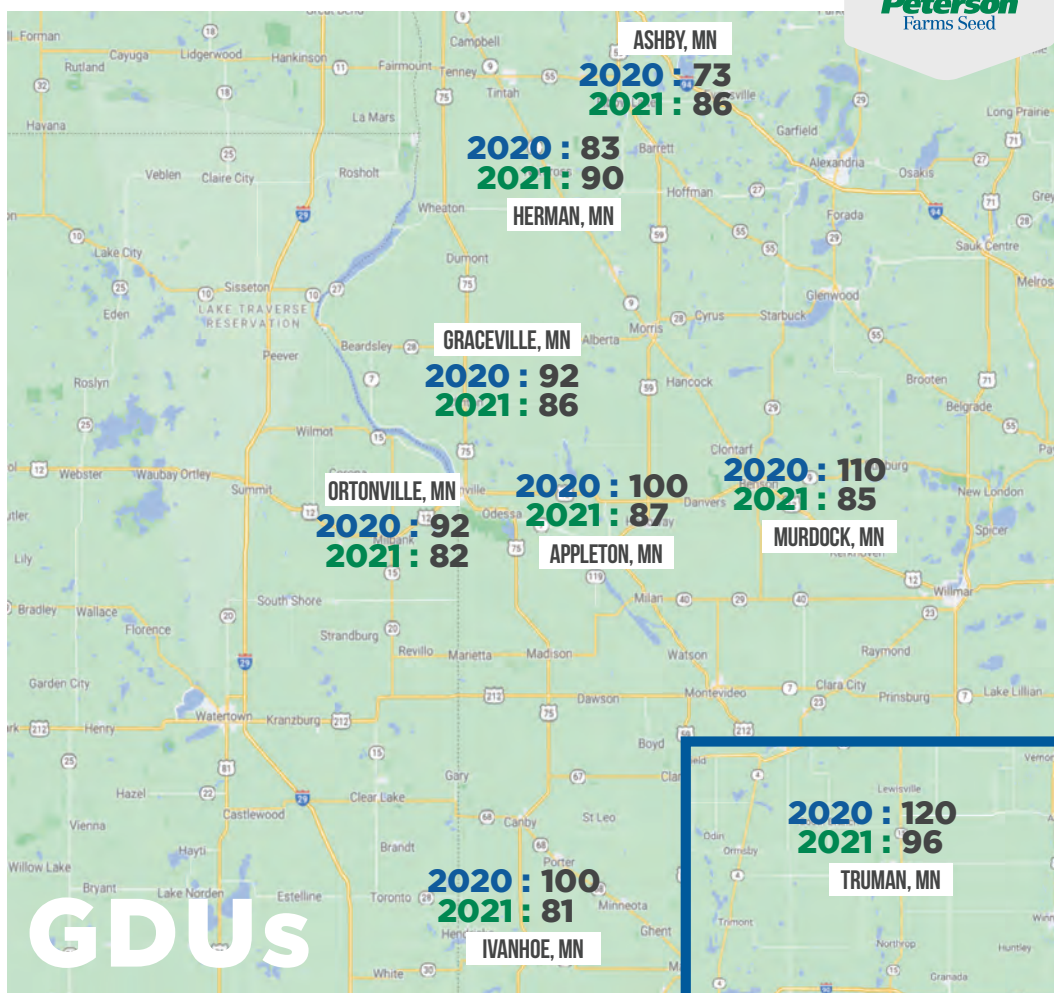

Wheat is up but the row crops have been waiting for more heat to emerge. Most fields should start emerging within the week.

JEFF OLSON CENTRAL ND

WEEKLY NOTES

Corn and soybeans are going in the ground all over my area. Some are getting close to finishing and others are still in the heat of the battle.

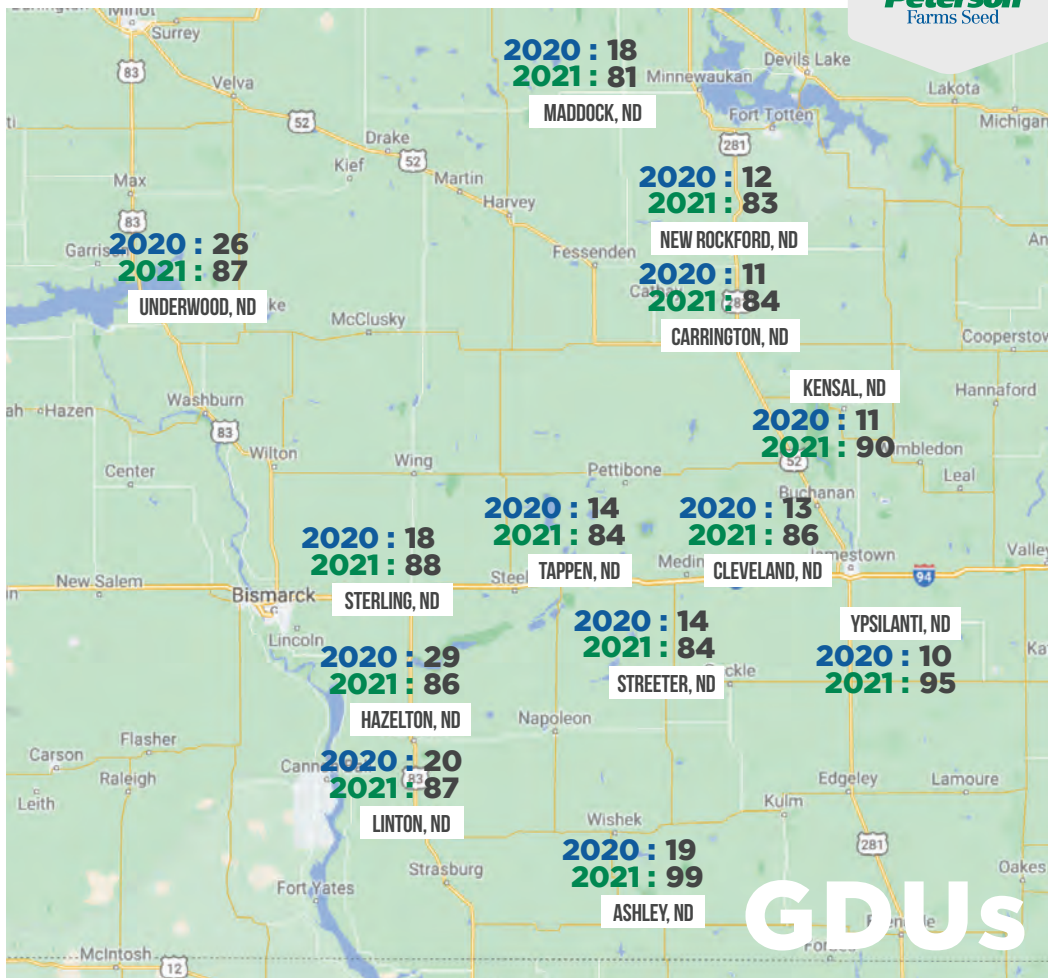

No row crops emerging yet, hopefully this heat will push them out of the ground.

MIKE SORBY WEST CENTRAL MN

WEEKLY NOTES

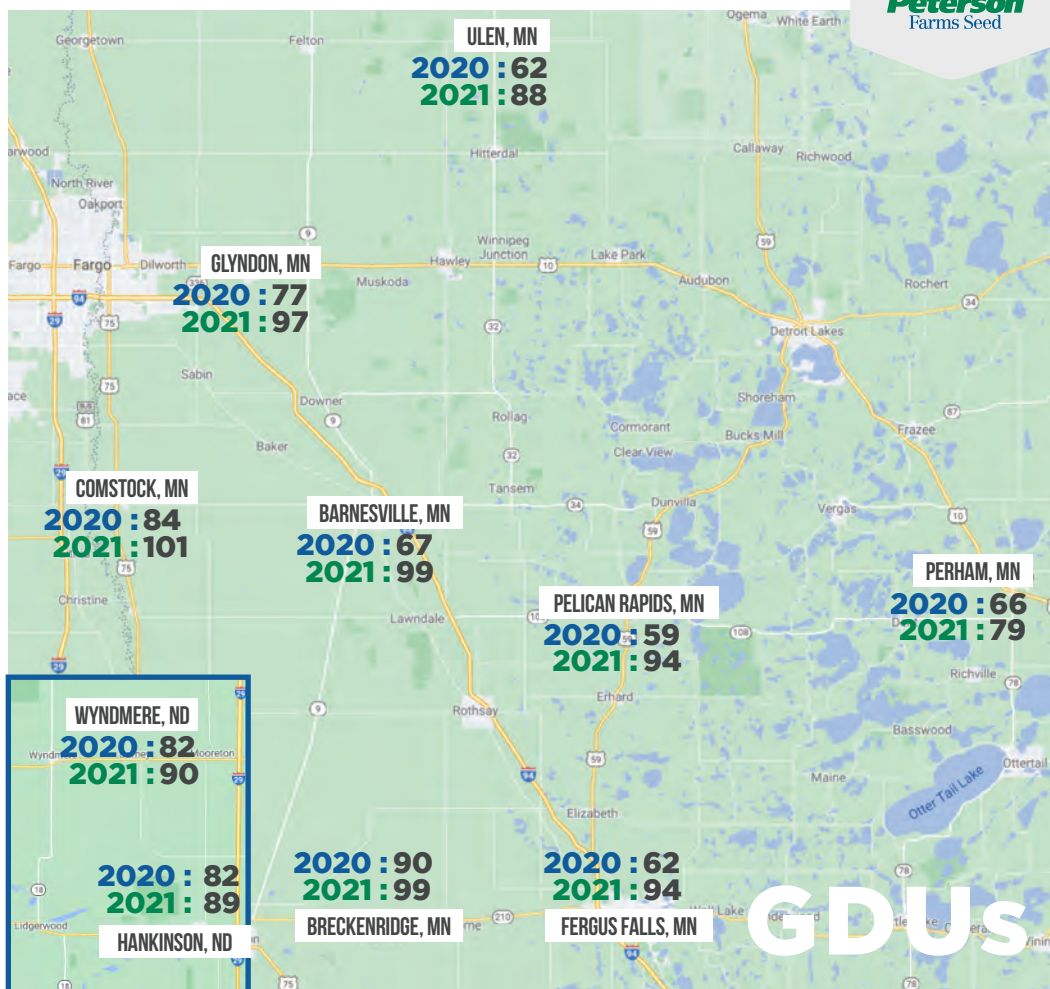

As a whole, we are 90% completed with planting. Some corn and soybeans are starting to pop up!

The whole area would like to see a rain this weekend.

PAUL BROMLEY NORTHWEST ND

WEEKLY NOTES

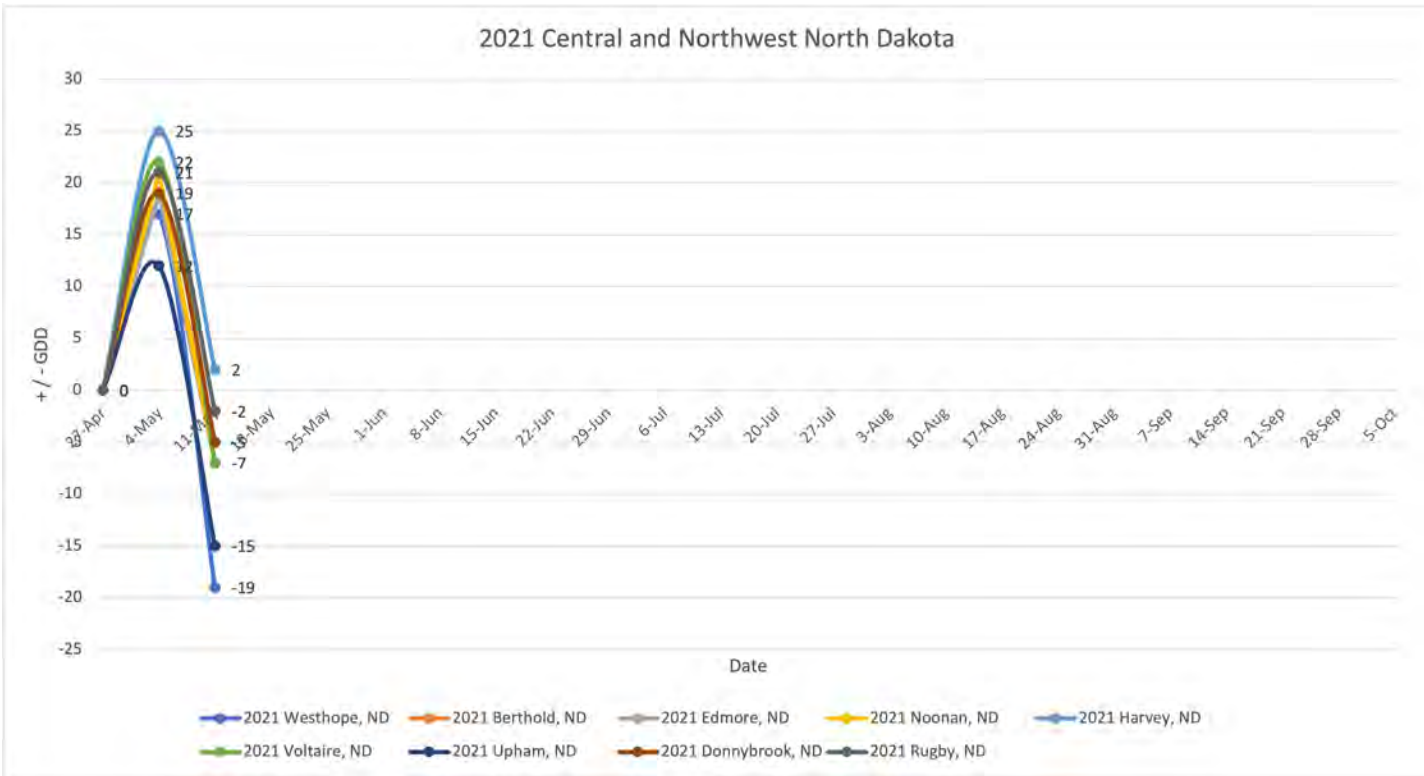

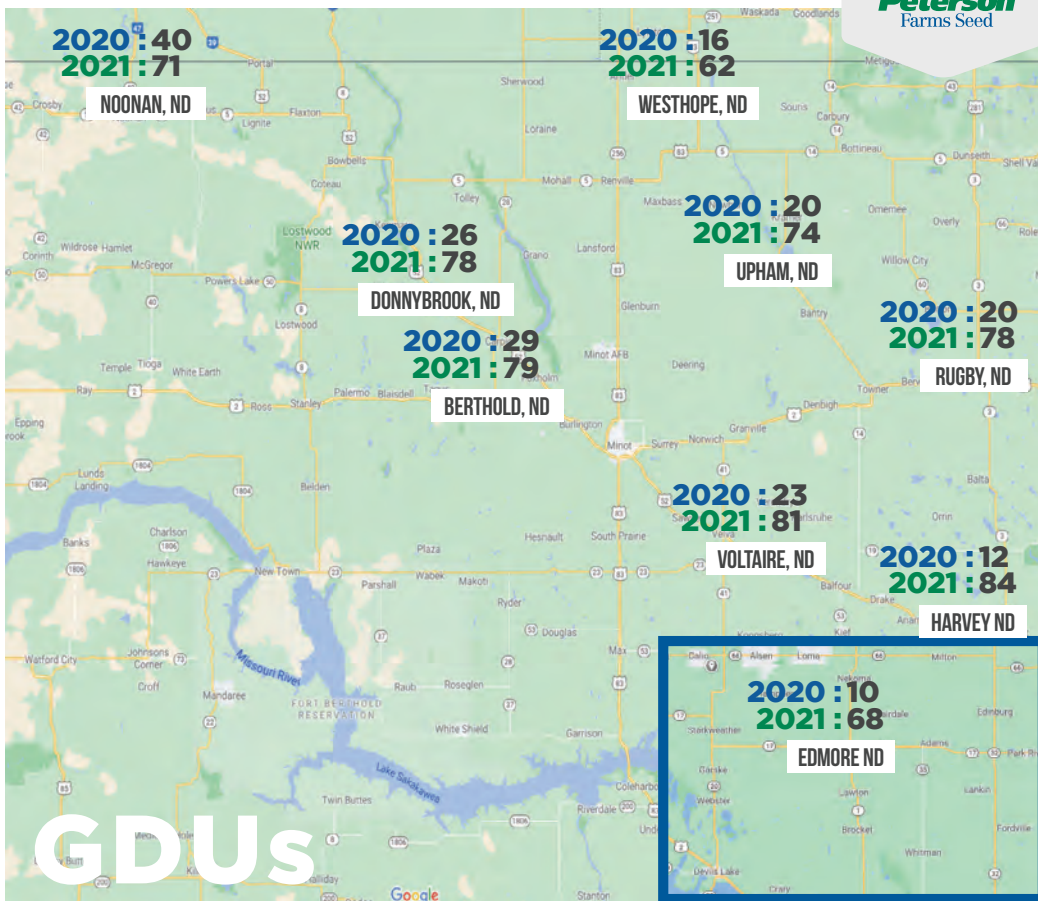

Lots of beans going in the ground - most people have wrapped up wheat or are almost done. Corn is about 50% done, soybeans are 20% in the ground and wheat is about done.

I'm really happy about the warm weather on the way!

TRAVIS WINTER EAST CENTRAL MN

WEEKLY NOTES

We are pretty much wrapped up down south. A few growers still sprinkling in soybeans.

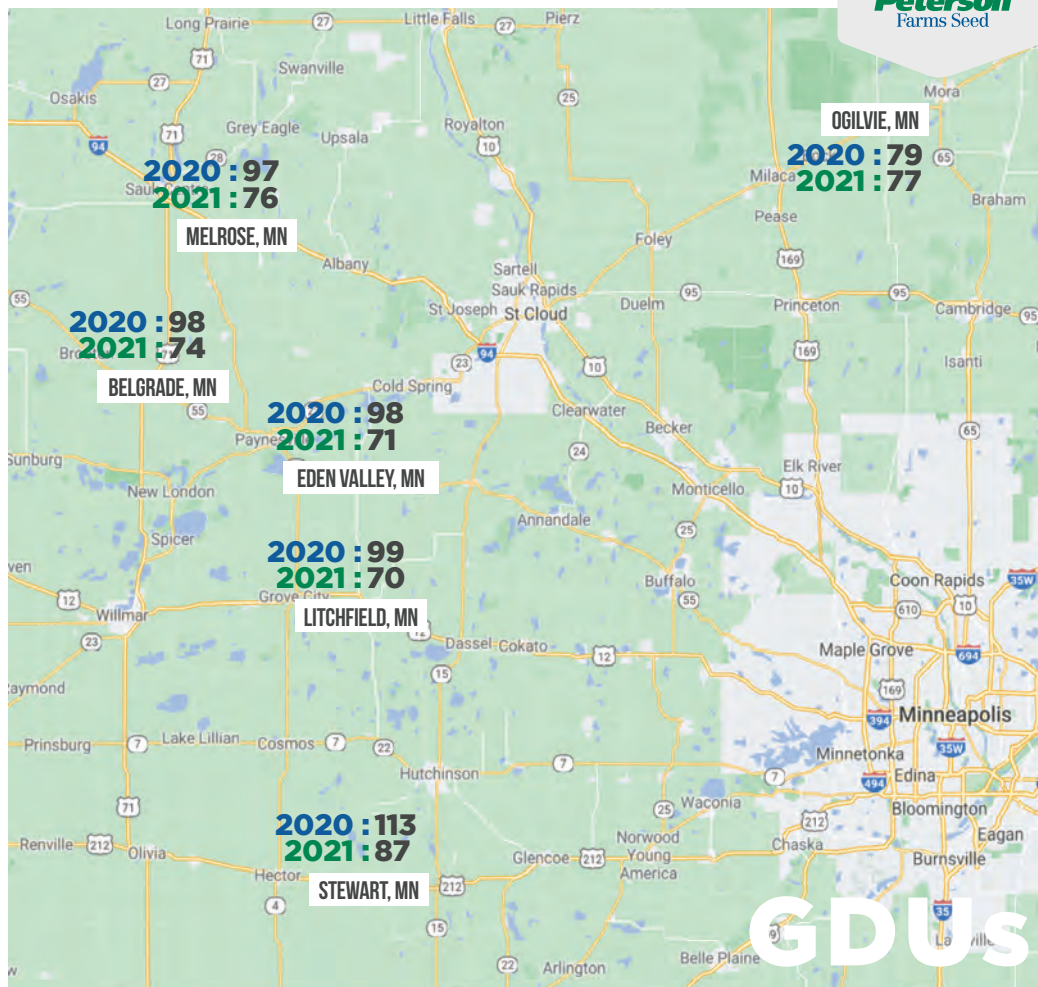

I did see some corn poking out of the ground from Hutchinson up to New London. My northern group is finishing corn and are hard in to soybeans. Most of my region should be finishing this weekend.

WEEKLY NOTES

We are 90% done with planting. Wheat is up and looks really good.

Early planted corn is germinated but nothing is out of the ground yet. Some soybeans are laying in dry dirt, hopefully we get some rain this weekend!
